The new MAXHUB 105" ultra-wide 5K display for brilliant images in a panoramic format

With its new 105" ultra-wide 5K display, MAXHUB – provider of innovative unified communication and display solutions – is presenting the ideal solution for New Work environments. The remarkable 21:9 aspect ratio perfectly showcases the front-row layout of Microsoft Teams Rooms.

Ideal for New Work environments

New Work environments demand new technologies. This means that all video conference participants should be seen, and sufficient space should be available for content visualisation. MAXHUB is now providing the solution in its new, ultra-wide 5K display with its 21:9 aspect ratio and 5,120 x 2,160, 60 Hz resolution. The focus during development was on making collaboration more natural and increasing productivity. The display was thus designed to support all popular conferencing platforms. A strategic partnership with Microsoft enabled the user interface design to perfectly adapt to the 21:9 aspect ratio and seamlessly display the Front Row layout. Two integrated 16-watt and one 15-watt speaker ensure optimum audio reproduction. The display has been designed for 16/7 operation, and its slim, elegant contours meet the demands of modern work environments.

Collaboration made easy.

The MAXHUB Share collaboration solution is integrated into the display to facilitate easy, wireless content sharing. This enables encrypted data transfer from any device, regardless of operating system, via Miracast and Airplay.

Future-proof equipment

The display offers a variety of interfaces, including a USB-C connection providing 100 watts of charging power. An RS232 port ensures direct integration into a network is possible, and an OPS slot guarantees the display remains future proof. An integrated motion sensor automatically switches the show on as soon as movement is detected – thus, meetings can begin without delay.
