Wireless collaboration twice as good: the new Klick&Show K-FX Plus

Kindermann presents the new dual-screen collaboration system Klick&Show K-FX Plus, the most powerful representative of the product family of BYOD and BYOM solutions to date. Together with the new transmitters, which can now stream laptop content in true 4K resolution, wireless meetings become twice as productive.

Klick&Show K-FX Plus enables the connection of existing USB devices in the conference room, such as video or soundbars, cameras and speakerphones. These can be used wirelessly with the notebook, regardless of the UCC platform.

Enhanced dual functions

With the integrated dual-screen functionality, two main displays can be used directly on a K-FX Plus base unit, making meetings clearer and more productive. On the one hand, you can keep an eye on the participants in the online meeting and, on the other, you can present content from local devices. This content can be streamed to the host laptop so that it can be shared with external users.

For the first time, the new Klick&Show K-FX Plus also supports the input of two USB cameras in order to offer different perspectives for external online participants. Another advantage is that the cameras can be used both wirelessly via a laptop and wired via USB from a stationary PC. Wired HDMI sources, such as a local computer or a document camera, can be connected thanks to the integrated 4K-compatible HDMI input.

The universal connection solution

Regardless of whether notebooks, tablets or smartphones are used in the meeting, Klick&Show K-FX Plus is the universal solution that offers a wide range of connectivity options. Content can be transmitted to the display in up to 4K UHD via transmitter, software client or natively via AirPlay, Miracast or Chromecast, while all common UCC platforms are supported.

New 4K WiFi transmitters in an appealing design

Befitting the new Klick&Show K-FX Plus, Kindermann is also presenting two new WiFi transmitters, available with an HDMI or USB-C connection. The new 4K transmitters not only enable wireless mirroring of content in 4K quality, but also have two auxiliary buttons that can be used to trigger various additional functions. The new Klick&Show 4K transmitters shine with an exceptional design and connect laptops to the Klick&Show base unit with a "plug & play" like user experience. Simply connect the transmitter to the device, press the show button and the live content is transmitted to the large display. The Tray-4K in a matching design keeps the conference table tidy.
